ABA Proposal on Segregation Irks Southern Group

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A committee report urging, in effect, that Southern states give up the fight to preserve racial segregation drew hot criticism today from a Southerner at the 14th annual convention of the American Bar Association.

Attorney Ben R. Miller of Baton Rouge, La., warned that such reports may cost the ABA members. He protested that the committee was out of order in commenting on matters still before courts, and stressed that it was only a committee report, not a position of the ABA.

In a talk to the ABA governing body, the House of Delegates, he said: "If this overzealousness continues and we in the South are forced from a position of moderation to choosing one extreme or the other, the results will be disastrous for the ABA."

The report was prepared by an ABA committee on the Bill of Rights, headed by attorney Rush H. Limbaugh of Cape Girardeau, Mo. It said the constitutional issue has been "solidly settled" by Supreme Court decisions and that "racial differentiation in public treatment offends the Constitution."

It said that state officials who "disregard the constitutional rights of our people" give the United States a black eye abroad and do damage at home.

One member of the seven-man committee, Alfred J. Schweppe of Seattle, Wash., took hot issue with the majority. In a separate report he called the Supreme Court decision against school segregation unconstitutional.

Solicitor General Archibald Cox called for an ending to stalling tactics by those who disagree with U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

Without mentioning Southern states of the court's antisegregation decisions, or any other group, the Kennedy administration official told members of the American Bar Association:

"The rule of law depends on voluntary acceptance.

"Those who disagree—or stall off by obvious evasion—the decisions of the court are endangering the rule of law scarcely less than those who invite mob violence; and this is true, I think, whether the decisions be flouted by private citizens or public officials.

"Similarly, one must mark the line between criticism of decisions and attacks upon the integrity of the justices and the processes of constitutional adjudication. To disregard this line, however fine it sometimes seems, and thereby to attack the rule of law is a gross disservice to the nation."

Cox's job as solicitor general is to represent the executive branch of government before the Supreme Court. He was a speaker at a session of the American Judicature Society, being held in connection with the 34th annual convention of the ABA.

Refugees Are Crowding Into Berlin Faster

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP)—A total of 1,928 refugees from East Germany flooded into West Berlin's overcrowded reception center the last 24 hours despite strenuous efforts by the East German police to dam the flow. Hundreds of persons were turned back by increased patrols.

The figure announced late today was nearly 200 more than for the previous 24 hours, and compared with 1,110 for last Wednesday.

The flow gained impetus from Premier Khrushchev's speech of Monday indicating Soviet firmness on the Berlin problem. Many of the refugees fear that their chance to flee from the Communist regime soon will be cut off altogether.

The exodus of refugees at the rate of almost 2,000 a day is the heaviest since the abortive East German revolt eight years ago.

Rationing of the autumn crop of potatoes was announced in East Germany today. At the same time officials there reported that production of consumer goods such as shoes and refrigerators had fallen short of the goals in the first six months of this year.

An East Berlin official said the regime may order sterner measures against East Berliners who work in the West sector of the city.

W. S. Atkins Attacks U. S. Court Ruling

Attorney W. S. Atkins laid down a blistering attack upon the U. S. Supreme Court in a speech delivered yesterday before Hope Kiwanis club at its Hotel Barlow luncheon meeting.

He referred specifically to the June 19 decision of the high court in which it ruled that no state or the federal government may bar from public office any person who does not believe in Almighty God. "This nation of ours was founded on the fundamental belief in God, and the court's ruling violates the very principle on which our nation was founded and has grown to become one of the great nations of the world."

"Our oath and allegiance to the flag contains the phrase of one nation indivisible under God, and now all of our coins, currency, and bills are imprinted 'In God We Trust.'"

"And, I further say to you that morality and good government cannot be maintained without religion."

"The supreme court in recent years has created some new and serious problems, but this decision strikes at the heart and foundation of our government and belief in the Almighty."

"God, give us men—men with love and honor," the speaker pleaded as he brought his talk to a close, and then received a standing ovation.

Mr. Atkins, first president of Kiwanis club when it was founded back in 1928, spoke on a program arranged by Joe Hutson.

Alford Lashes Fulbright, May Seek His Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., today described as "truly shocking" a memorandum prepared by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., concerning information activities of the military.

Alford coupled with his attack a call for defeat of public officials, state and federal, "who have been unable or unwilling to initiate or enact measures to defend our people and the states from tyrannical supervision."

Alford has been mentioned in some quarter as a possible opponent for Fulbright next year.

Without mentioning Fulbright by name, Alford in his statement called the memorandum as published in the Congressional Record "an insidious attack on the officer corps and a clandestine assault on the very foundations of our system of government."

Fulbright took exception in the memorandum to military sponsorship of public forums featuring what he called "radical, right-wing speakers."

Fulbright sent the memorandum to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and to President Kennedy.

Collision of Ships Leaves Damage

MANISTIQUE, Mich. (AP)—A 38-foot motor vessel and a 511-foot Greek-flag freighter collided in fog-shrouded Lake Michigan early today.

The motorship Mackinac Island, a former passenger ferry converted to lumber-carrying use and carrying a crew of three, suffered heavy damage but was reported to be in no immediate danger.

A 40-foot patrol boat from the Coast Guard Beaver Island mooring overtook the damaged ship in dense fog. The Mackinac Islander asked for a tow to port.

A Coast Guard plane identified the second vessel as the Zermatt, sailing under the Greek flag.

The collision occurred at about 6:30 a. m. six miles southwest of Gull Island and just north of where the limestone carrier Carl D. Bradley went down in a storm on Nov. 18, 1958, with loss of 33 lives.

At the time, the Wisconsin senator had held the floor for 26 hours and 9 minutes since he began Monday. He had several breaks, however, when other senators spoke.

Latin Plea for $20 Billion Has U. S. Blessing

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

PUNTA DE ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—The United States, happy with the progress of the inter-American economic conference, gave its blessing today to an ambitious appeal by Latin nations for a 10-year inflow of at least $20 billion from U. S. and other foreign sources.

The U. S. delegation to the Alliance for Progress assembly, bowed gracefully to Latin sensitivity and even helped revise two planks in the momentous Declaration of Punta del Este. The planks had aroused strong opposition among sovereign-minded Latin-American statesmen.

One would set up a public information machine. The other would establish a commission of "seven wise men" as an advisory and coordinating body for national development programs.

The $20-billion proposal, introduced at a night session was accompanied by an appeal to all governments to get their programs ready within 18 months. This made clear the sponsors wanted each nation to do its own planning.

The United States studiously ignored a two-hour harangue Tuesday night by Cuba's economic czar, Ernesto Guevara. A delegation spokesman said the vitriolic assault on the Kennedy program would not be "diffused with a response."

The United States was disturbed by the idea that Guevara may have embarrassed the government of Venezuela, which is engaged in an aggressive program of economic and social reform. It was considered that Venezuela was one of the many targets of the Cuban attack.

As for Guevara's charge that the United States plotted to kill Raul Castro, Fidel's brother, July 26 was brushed off here as nonsense.

When Guevara finished speaking, several Cuban exiles in the

Developments May Cause a Minor Boom

By HOWARD D. CRISWELL JR.

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Heavy cargo planes thundered regularly into the Darlington, S.C., airport today in a gigantic supply operation of joint Army-Air Force Exercise Swift Strike.

A majority of the cargo and fighter support aircraft were manned by Air Reservists and Air National Guardsmen, many of whom already have been alerted for possible recall for active duty in the tense Berlin situation.

That, plus close observation of the quick-striking abilities of the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC), made the exercise doubly important.

The job of the Air Force was to furnish air cover and bring supplies to the 82nd Airborne Division which dropped 4,100 men and their equipment near Camden, S.C., Monday in what ranking officers called a near-perfect operation.

The exercise is being held in an eight-county area of North Carolina and South Carolina stretching 100 miles south-eastward from this military reservation.

The 82nd, one of three crack STRAC divisions, is acting as a United States force sent to a country which has been invaded by unfriendly forces.

The 101st airborne Division, another STRAC unit, is expected to drop about 5,000 paratroopers Thursday in an effort to repel the 82nd.

Today's schedule called for C-119s, C-124s and C-130s to make 310 air landings at Darlington.

Testimony Confirms Arkla Loss on Appliances Passed on to Its Gas Consumers

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A former appearance of utility consultant J. E. Flanders against Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. was injected today into a rate case in which Flanders is the company's chief expert witness.

City Attorney J. V. Spencer Jr. of El Dorado questioned Flanders about his testimony in a 1956 case in which the consultant represented Reynolds Metals Co. in a rate dispute with Arkla.

He apparently was trying to show that Flanders, of Jefferson City, Mo., used one theory of rate-making then and another now.

Flanders, who contends Arkla isn't earning as much as it is entitled to, came back to the witness stand for more cross-examination by Spencer and City Attorney George Holmes Jr. of Pine Bluff, representing cities opposing a recent Arkla rate increase.

They questioned Flanders for seven hours Tuesday.

Flanders said on cross-examination that Arkla lost $372,438 on sale and servicing of gas appliances and noted that Arkansas customers absorbed $253,915 of this loss.

But he contended that it was good business for a gas utility to engage in an appliance operation because this promotes use of natural gas. "The customers of a utility benefit overall from that business," he said.

Flanders' testimony came at a hearing before the Public Service Commission which has been asked by the cities to disallow a $1.2 million annual rate increase put into effect by Arkla last April 1.

The company boosted its minimum bill from $1.10 to $1.80 a month in 53 cities on its integrated system. The PSC can void the increase and order a refund if it feels Arkla is not entitled to the raise.

Flanders testified on direct examination Monday, his first day on the stand, that Arkla's earnings, even with the increase, fall $1,137,339 a year short of the 6.34 per cent the Supreme Court has ruled a utility can earn.

The weather factor in Arkla's rate structure was explored again Tuesday. Flanders said Arkla had a 7.5 per cent rate of return in 1960 before he adjusted income to account for an extremely cold winter which boosted gas consumption with a resulting increase in revenues.

Flanders said he figured the weather adjustment by applying 1960 rates to average consumption for the years 1941 through 1957. Spencer said Flanders should have made adjustment by cutting 1960 revenues by a percentage according to the number of days that were abnormally cold.

Cancellation of Opera Union Fault

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of a labor union involved in a contract dispute with the Metropolitan Opera insisted today that issues still can be settled. He deplored the Met decision to cancel the 1961-62 season because of the wrangle.

The union chief, Al Manuti, said negotiators would be glad to meet with the management at any time in an effort to iron out differences. "We would like to assure the public that they will have a 1961-62 opera season," he said.

He assailed the management, saying it had "developed a pattern of conducting its negotiations with the union's representatives practically at the point of a gun."

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg stepped into the situation.

Fourth Seized From U. S., Air Force Alerted

NEW YORK (AP)—Pan American World Airways today reported a jetliner flying over Central America with 81 persons aboard was hijacked and diverted toward Cuba, in Washington, the Air Force high command was alerted as a result.

"It is probable they may act according to some prearranged plan," a government spokesman said of the Air Force. There was no elaboration on the plan.

Word reaching the White House was that a lone hijacker took over the big airliner.

One report, through official channels said the foreign minister of Bolivia and his wife were aboard the airliner.

Pan American here said the plane was hijacked while flying between Mexico City and Guatemala.

Council Can't Decide on Cushion Fund

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Legislative Council tried to decide today whether the state's $8.5 million "cushion" fund could be used for construction. It didn't reach a definite conclusion.

The idea was advanced Tuesday by Rep. Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County, who suggested that the fund be combined with an existing surplus of $11.7 million to finance a building program.

Today the council asked Frank Storey, secretary of the Board of Finance, to advise them.

Additional questions continued to arise as Storey discussed the matter with the council.

Van Dalsen wanted to know if the $8.5 million were transferred to construction, could the fund be replenished with some of the $18 million of daily treasury balances now invested.

Storey said this likely would upset the function of the treasury but that from a legal standpoint it probably could be done.

The council Tuesday wound up a series of hearings in which it received some $90 million of construction requests from various institutions and agencies.

During the past two days the University of Arkansas and seven state colleges listed more than $50 worth of construction needs and suggested ways to raise part of the money.

The council now plans to hear requests for supplemental operating appropriations.

At the conclusion of the hearings the council will digest the requests and prepare recommendations for a forthcoming special fiscal session of the legislature.

All the legislature actually has to spend is $11.7 million in surplus funds, but the colleges Monday proposed creation of a $17 million construction fund, using only $2 million of the surplus.

They asked for a $10 million revenue bond issue, which Pulaski Rep. J. H. Cottrell Jr., promptly labeled an effort to evade a popular vote, and sought $5 million for the general fund.

Cottrell, whose suit led to invalidation of the 1961 omnibus appropriations law, was particularly incensed about a provision in the proposal which would have the state buy $5 million worth of the bonds and hold them over a 25-year period.

"The state might as well give them the $5 million and without issuing the bonds," he said.

Invalidation of the $14.5 million

Mayors Lose Elections at 2 Points

Mayors at Paragould and Malvern lost bids for renomination in Tuesday's Democratic primaries.

And Paragould Alderman Robert Harrison was beaten by one vote on a basis of unofficial returns.

El Dorado Mayor Roy Guindy, seeking a second term, defeated Monroe Huasickler 1,577 to 1,387 to strike one blow for the incumbents.

At Paragould J. T. (Chigger) Brown defeated Mayor Charley Wood, who was seeking a sixth term, by 10 votes, 1,087 to 1,077. George Textor defeated Harrison 1,070 to 1,069.

Both the El Dorado and Paragould elections were runoffs between candidates who received pluralities in the July 25 primary.

Mayor Lester Pate of Malvern was defeated in a first primary in the Hot Spring County seat. Howard Wright, an alderman for 12 years, polled 835 votes to 698 for Pate, who was seeking a second term.

El Dorado also had a Republican primary, the first local primary in history for the GOP there, and three candidates polled a total of 204 votes.

J. E. Talbot got 66 in Ward One, J. C. Campbell collected 68 in Ward Two and R. M. Wright polled 70 in Ward Four. They will face Democratic opponents in the November general election.

Benton voters gave 1,336 to 702 approval to a $50,000 bond issue to finance expansion of the municipal power plant.

And Coal Hill residents voted 159-9 to elevate their city to second class status. The change means the city will be divided into wards and it will become eligible for state turnback funds.

Council Can't

omnibus law and defeat at the polls of Gov. Orval E. Faubus' $60 million bond issue proposal led to the present council hearing. The special legislative session will be charged with drawing up some kind of emergency construction program to replace that embodied in the omnibus and bond laws.

The council took time out from fiscal affairs Tuesday to ask Faubus to include in his call for a special session an appropriation to pay for a special election on congressional redistricting.

Such an election, held before the 1962 primaries, would eliminate the possibility that congressional candidate would have to run at large next year. This possibility exists because Act 5 of 1961, which reduced the number of congressional districts from six to four, has been referred to a popular vote in the November, 1962, general election.

Atty. Gen. Frank Holt ruled over the weekend that the question could be settled in a special election if proponents of the act can collect some 63,000 names on petitions asking an early vote.

Holt also said the legislature could enact an alternate redistricting plan, but there has been little legislative sentiment for this.

The council Tuesday heard two suggestions on how additional construction money could be raised. Budget Director Julian Hogan said $1 to $2 million could be obtained by reducing the state's reserve fund below the present level of $8.5 million, set by law. Hogan said fiscal officers could get by with a smaller reserve.

Pulaski Rep. Joel Y. Ledbetter suggested that a 1.5 million Revenue Department Building could be constructed with a revenue bond issue, using income from a 1961 increase of 50 cents in the auto registration fee. The legislature increased the fee specifically to pay for the Revenue Department Building.

Ledbetter earlier in the session got council approval of a revenue from matinees at the West Memphis dog track be channeled into a construction fund. The 1961 legislature authorized matinees at the dog track.

Construction requests, and the amounts, received Tuesday were: Arkansas Tech $3,728,391 for immediate needs and $1,275,000 in long-range needs; Arkansas State College $4,923,666 plus $800,000 for its Beebe branch; Southern State College $3,661,072 plus a supplemental operating appropriation of $52,526 a year; and Arkansas A&M $3,352,604.

The $20-billion resolution was submitted by Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico and Peru. It differed from U. S. proposals on two major points.

First, the resolution watered down the U. S. proposal for a powerful committee of "seven wise men" to coordinate economic planning for Latin America. The five nations made clear they intend to plan their own economic programs and substituted a proposal for an inter-American planning staff with advisory powers only.

The five also junked the disputed American scheme for an elaborate information and cultural campaign to publicize the economic and social reforms that are the aims of Kennedy's program.

An Argentine delegate said privately the United States was "largely in agreement" with the resolution, which is expected to form the backbone of a joint declaration to be signed at the close of the conference.

The resolution declares that Latin America's economic ills require "a supply of capital from all external sources during the coming 10 years of at least $20 billion—the bulk of which should be in public funds."

This was the figure Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon mentioned in his address to the conference. Dillon stressed, however, that the size of the aid would depend largely on whether the Latin-American countries take the "necessary internal measures" to insure rapid economic growth and development.

The United States already had promised to contribute more than a billion dollars a year to keep the program going. Dillon mentioned Japan and nations in Western Europe as potential sources to make up the balance.

Delegates turned to closed-door sessions today to try to get the gigantic aid program off the ground. They will study the five-nation resolution and other proposals and will draft a final declaration to be signed before the conference closes Aug. 16.

He slipped occasionally from a ly an empty cavern as Proxmire, 46, stood behind his back row desk and argued against confirmation of O'Connor's nomination. O'Connor's "whole experience, his whole identification" has been with the oil and gas industry," Proxmire said. He protested O'Connor shouldn't be named to an agency responsible for regulating the industry.

"As dawn was breaking, a hail of dozen clerks and other attendants were clustered in front of the chamber where Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., sat in the presiding officer's chair.

Two page boys nodded sleepily. The public galleries were all but deserted. Occasionally elevator operators, doorkeepers and other employees wandered in to listen for a few minutes. Charwomen and janitors were busy cleaning up adjacent rooms and corridors.

Although Proxmire did not attempt to make a non-stop speech by 6 a. m. he had been on his feet speaking or answering questions a total of 19 hours and 36 minutes off and on. One rested by yielding to colleagues for speeches on other subjects.

The long distance speaking record is held by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-SC, who held the floor in August 1957 for 24 hours and 18 minutes in a fight against a civil rights bill. However, he was interrupted for an hour and 18 minutes for transaction of other business.

Since 9:21 (EDT) Tuesday night, however, Proxmire had been on his feet most of the time. He slipped occasionally from a

Cotton Crop Some Better

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Crop Reporting Service said today that recent hot, sunny weather was favorable for cotton and that the crop is making good progress.

The weekly summary added that insects are increasing rapidly in some Delta areas and that many farmers are applying insecticides. Rice prospects continued promising, the report said.

All major crops now show promise of good to very good yields although they are somewhat later than usual.

The report covered the week ending Monday.

It is estimated that one of every 10 U. S. homes built in 1961 will be air conditioned.

glass of milk, and, shortly after midnight, apologized to Senate employees for "the sorry and oppressive burden" he was placing on them.

But he said he wanted to go on and finish his speech so that a vote on O'Connor's nomination could be taken before the day was over.

O'Connor, from Houston, Tex., now is administrator of the Interior Department's oil imports program. His confirmation for the FPC post was recommended unanimously by the Senate Commerce Committee after hearings at which Proxmire first opened fire on him as an "industry man."

FINA CONSIDERS THE LOGISTICS IN GETTING PINK AIR, THE ADDITIVE OF THE FUTURE, TO LITTLE FINA STATIONS AS WELL AS BIG FINA STATIONS

A PINK AIR PIPELINE?

Pink Air, if you recall, is Fina's additive of the future; the secret ingredient which will make the inside of your tires prettier. It is the only possible additive left; everything else in your car has already been taken care of. So Fina can be first, we have started a crash program, The Fina Five Year Plan. Now the question has come up: How are we going to get Pink Air® to the thousands of Fina stations by May 12th, 1966?

There are two answers:

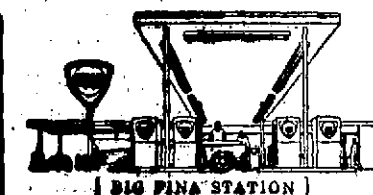

1. That we transport Pink Air in the same trucks as we do our gasoline: from our refineries in Mount Pleasant, Wichita Falls, and El Dorado to Fina stations. This is impractical because the pink air might mingle with and color the gasoline. Our gas doesn't need any more additives; it is already as good as the best.

2. That we build a Pink Air pipe line: The Pink Inch (See map above): This isn't as easy as it sounds; it would be a lot of hard work and would probably cost a pretty penny. You know, you don't just get out there and lay pipe across the countryside. You've got to ask people's permission and pay them something to boot. Still, if we have to do it we have to do it.

Maybe the easiest thing would be to make it out of air hoses like we use in our stations, only thousands of miles long; The Little Pink Inch. We don't suppose people would mind so much having a very thin line strung across their front yards and all, if we made it worth their while.

The real advantage to the proposed Little Pink Inch Pipe Line is that it would be fair. It would make Pink Air available at the big Fina stations and the little Fina stations at one and the same time, without fear or favor.

*We've said this so often now that it's gotten to be sort of the Fina motto. It isn't very pushy as mottos go, but it's realistic. We don't expect you to do anything that isn't reasonable or convenient.

A big Fina station has, in addition to lots of pumps you can see, lots of underground storage tanks; and lots of attendants to keep check on them. So taking care of Pink Air would be no problem at all.

But a little Fina station might be just two pumps in front of a general store and the proprietor not only has no extra storage space but is plenty busy as it is, what with slicing bacon and all. You might have to honk twice, not that he doesn't give you good service once he knows you're there. So you can see a direct line from the refinery would be a real help to him.

There are still a few details to be worked out; such as how to get it across highways. Maybe when we come to a road we could string it between poles. If the telephone company people will cooperate. Well, we have five years to iron out the kinks and we'll probably need every minute of it.

Meanwhile, if you are driving down the road and you see a Fina station and it's on your side so you don't have to make a U-turn through traffic and there aren't six cars waiting and you need gas or something, please stop in.*

Arkansans Praise Red Space Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansans congressmen praised Russia's latest space flight, but in the same breath urged the U.S. not to become panicky about its own space program.

"I could not fail to realize the implications of the flight," said Rep. Oren Harris. "On the other hand, we must not get panicky."

"Of course it is newsworthy," said Rep. E. C. Gathings, "but we shouldn't go overboard. In other words, don't push the panic button."

"I join President Kennedy in his admiration of the second Russian astronaut launching," said Sen. J. W. Fulbright. "They are to be congratulated for this technical achievement."

"It points up the fact we should have placed, and should in the future place, more emphasis on our scientific knowledge and related subjects pertaining to national defense," said Rep. Dale Alford.

Rep. Rames Trimble has this to say: "With a Russian bear as tall as the door at the front door, a red dragon at the back door, as long as the porch, and now the Eagle flying overhead, it is time to do something about it."

"We can do it," he said, "but

Life With Mother One Continuous Battle

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Life with my mother is life on the firing line. I am 20, hold a fairly good job and give her $15 a week out of my salary. To avoid arguments, I don't eat at home and mostly do my own washing. But, no matter what—Mother blows her top.

If I'm to survive there's got to be a change. My girl friend, knowing of these home conditions, has offered to share an apartment with me. Now, Mother's throwing a fit over that. I've respected her wishes in the past but there is just so much a human being can take and I've had it.

Sooner or later she'll have to get used to my being gone because I am to be married when my boy friend comes home next December. Whatever I do, I shall continue to give Mother money every week. Do you think that will reconcile her? It isn't as if I was all she had. My two kid brothers, both high-school age, keep things lively at home and Mother's got a good job herself.

Why must I always be the target for her ill-temper? —Tired-Of-It-All

Dear Tired-Of-It-All: Not all mothers are saints. Accept the fact, do the best you can and go on with your own life. For some reason, perhaps it's psychological, mothers are often at odds with their daughters. But this I have also observed: bad-tempered mothers usually produce daughters who are dependable, conscientious and courageous. Having been tried by fire and brimstone, such a girl is bound to succeed. So, take heart and prepare to reap the reward you deserve.

Dear Helen: My husband believes his folks before he believes me. I've just told his gossiping brother to keep his nose on his side of the fence and if he, or any other in-laws, have anything to say about me, say it to my face.

Now, all of a sudden, they're giving a party and I'm invited. I feel like never seeing any of them again. Did I do right in facing the brother down? I'm a good wife and have even taken in boarders, to help rear our children and keep our home. Why wasn't my husband man enough to stick up for me? Did I do right in facing his brother down? Should I go to the party? —M. R. M.

Dear M. R. M.: If the meddling brother is willing to bury the hatchet you should be too. Perhaps the in-laws are trying to make amends. Standing up for your rights evidently cleared the air. Your husband has been caught between fires. Don't be too critical. He wouldn't be worthy of your love if he didn't love his people. Go to the party for his sake and keep your temper. No matter what the others do, or say, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Successful Marriage."

Send your problems to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Send for a list.

Thinks Time Now to Talk About Berlin

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—At this point the average citizen in America and the Soviet Union may be wondering why the United States and Russia don't start talking about Berlin instead of talking about talking.

President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have talked repeatedly of their willingness to have American-Russian discussions on the German city but any start of such discussions still seems a long way off.

It's as if the two giants of the world—this country and Russia—had to go into a slow waltz every time they heard the Berlin music played. They went through pretty much the same routine in 1958 and 1959.

Since Khrushchev started the rumpus last June 4 at his Vienna meeting with Kennedy — by demanding once again the allies get out of Berlin — there have been yards and yards of American notes, Soviet notes, allied notes.

So far neither side has made a direct suggestion to the other that they sit down together and get moving.

Khrushchev in his speech Monday night—addressed to the Soviet people but aimed at Kennedy —played a kind of hot weather Santa Claus. He had a little of something for everybody.

As usual he warned the United States it would get its comeuppance if it started a war. But he also said "Let's not create hysteria" and proposed: "Let's sit down around a table and negotiate in an honest way."

He complimented Kennedy for showing common sense in wishing to avoid war but at the same time said the United States and its allies "are pushing the world to a dangerous brink."

This speech was in reply to one Kennedy gave July 25 on Berlin. The President's tough talk of that date reportedly angered Khrushchev. If so, it didn't show up in Monday's talk which was notable for two things:

1. It showed much more restraint than Khrushchev has used at other times.

2. It gave an impression—when he noted Kennedy's decision to build up the American armed forces—that this whole thing might get out of hand.

Kennedy's July 25 talk was obviously intended both to show Khrushchev the allies would not back down on Berlin and to cool him off a bit. Khrushchev appeared a little cooled.

Nevertheless, this situation is beginning to look like one in which one word could lead to another until both sides got in deeper than they wanted or expected.

Too much has been said on both sides now to remember it all without a file. But if you had such a file some of Khrushchev's performance at this point would look almost giddy in accomplishing what he said he wanted to avoid.

Last June 28 he said that if the West called for mobilization of its armed forces the Soviets would "take the necessary steps to strengthen our security."

Ten days passed in which the West did no mobilizing. Then suddenly on July 3 Khrushchev said Russia had suspended troop re-

Happy to Be Home From Moscow

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A child's eye view of Moscow: grim, but not unfriendly.

That's the report of skating star Donna Alwood, recently returned from five weeks of performing in the Soviet capital. She was joined by her 11-year-old twins, Donald and Dennis, and daughter, Cissy, 8.

"It was a fascinating experience for us all," said Donna. "But the children and I were never happier to get home."

What impressed them most? "The grimness of the people," she said. "When you see them on the street, no one laughs. You see nothing but long, sour faces."

It was difficult to communicate with the Soviet people yet her children managed to do it.

"One day the children went over to a playground where a lot of Russian boys and girls were playing," she said. "My kids didn't understand Russian, and the others didn't know English. But soon they were playing together like children anywhere. There seems to be an international language among young people."

Donna's folks got no message from the Russian food, however. "We managed to get by with beef stroganoff once a day," she said. "We had carrots a couple of times a week; otherwise the only vegetable was boiled potatoes. We never saw any lettuce. Oranges were 60 cents apiece."

Donna, the skating star from Newton, Kan., went to Moscow for her return to leotards after a four-year absence. She starred in the show for 16 seasons and was married to the producer, John H. Harris. They are now divorced.

The Soviet audiences? "They were wonderful," she said. "We played to 7,000 a night, two shows on Saturday and three on Sunday. They laughed in the same places American audiences would and applauded in the same places."

Does the Soviet engagement herald a return to the ice for her? "No, I wouldn't go back to touring. I was on the road for 48 out of 52 weeks for 16 years. The children always went with me, but when they started in school, it was time for me to settle down in one place."

EL TOURISTO

By RALPH DYLONG

Alonso's tavern in the sleepy little Chihuahua village was always busy in the tourist season. Part of this was due to the fact that it was the cleanest tavern on a forty-mile stretch of bumpy, dusty highway and partly because Alonso was a very famous man. He had known Pancho Villa.

Alonso had been only a small boy when Tio Pancho had come to the tavern, which was then not so clean and was operated by Alonso's father, one of Villa's lieutenants.

When the tourists came to the tavern, Alonso described the general. He told how Pancho Villa was not a bandit, as gringos called him, but a great patriot, who died a martyr. Even after his death, Villa's enemies would not leave him alone. They desecrated his grave, dug up the body and stole Pancho Villa's head. That is why a headless ghost wanders through Mexico.

Today there were many tourists. One, a white-haired gringo who drank nothing but beer, had looked very familiar. But all gringos looked alike to Alonso. Especially tourist gringos. Another listener who had heard Alonso's story many times was Ricardo, of the rurales, whose duty it was to enforce the law.

When Alonso paused in his monologue to bring in another case of beer from the back room, Ricardo winked at the American called Steve. "It is best that you do not believe everything Alonso tells you, senior. He has repeated those stories so many times, changing them a little from day to day, that no longer do they resemble the truth."

The American smirked his lips over the beer. "Well, it's the best entertainment in town. What became of that money Pancho left here that night in '23 just before he was murdered?" he asked Alonso.

"Don't kid me, buster. Maybe it isn't here. Pancho had it loaded into carts and hauled away. But you know where those crates of treasure went."

Alonso probed the recesses of his mind. It had been many years ago, but now he knew why the Gringo looked familiar. Steve was one of several gringos who rode with Tio Pancho.

"Many boxes I remember. Si, I do not know what was in them, senior," said Alonso.

Early the next morning, Ricardo the policeman noticed unusual things taking place in the village. Senior Steve, the tourist, rode out of town on a rented horse, leading two pack animals. A few minutes later, Alonso, the innkeeper, followed on a burro. Alonso was reasonably honest, Ricardo believed, but not above robbing a tourist, which is not as great a crime as some. Nevertheless, it was Ricardo's duty to keep the laws from being broken. He followed the procession.

The trail was plain, for neither man expected to be followed. It led into a canyon east of town. The gringo had halted twice, in front of caves, while Alonso had hidden and waited.

It was almost noon when he spotted the horses of Senior Steve and Alonso's burro standing in front of a small cave, the last in the canyon.

Even when Ricardo approached the scene two shots rang out.

Cautiously Ricardo entered. He smelled gunsmoke and as his eyes grew accustomed to the darkness, he saw that death had been here. Alonso lay near the entrance of the cave, a pistol in his hand. The gringo's body was lying against some boxes.

The gringo moved. Looked up at Ricardo's shadow falling on the walls of the cave.

"The headless ghost!" he whispered, and died.

Ricardo's shadow had indeed looked like a ghost without a head, for part of it fell behind a rock, out of view of the dying gringo.

Ricardo went forward to examine the boxes. One had been broken open.

He reached inside and touched something metallic. Then he withdrew his hand. It was not gold that Ricardo held, but a handful of metallic cartridges, turned bluish green with corrosion. Pancho Villa's hidden treasure.

Thinks U. S. Is Ahead of Reds Over-All

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—The United States is ahead of the Soviet Union in the over-all space field says C. Stark Draper, head of aeronautical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Draper expressed his belief Monday after Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov landed from his space flight.

Speaking to the American Rocket Society's national conference, Draper described as "malarkey" reports that Titov controlled the course of his Vostok II during his orbiting of the earth.

"That boy didn't do anything more than Shepard (Alan B. Shepard Jr.) did on his ride," said Draper. "He didn't have the thrust aboard to go out of his orbital path. I think what they (the Russians) mean was that he was changing the attitude of the capsule—just like Shepard (the American astronaut) did in the sub-orbital test."

Draper said the Russians concentrate their best scientists and technicians in a narrow field to get spectacular results.

"Years ago," he said, "we

Reactions to Soviet Space Flight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The latest Soviet earth orbiting brought reactions from the average American today ranging from fear to complacency about its importance to grave doubt and resigned acceptance that it actually took place.

A street survey showed that Americans across the nation ran the gamut of emotions in expressing their feeling about Maj. Gherman S. Titov's having circled the earth more than 17 times in slightly over 25 hours.

Some said they were scared. Many were amazed. A few said they didn't really care. Others looked on it as a step toward solution of the cold war.

Some offered unqualified congratulations on the Soviet accomplishment but most did so reluctantly, wishing it had been the United States that had turned the trick.

Alber Lange, Waterbury, Conn. salesman—"I think it was a marvelous thing. I think we'll catch up just the same."

Al Rinaldi Richmond, Va., high school coach—"It depresses me that they are so far ahead of us—I am not jubilant at all."

Mrs. Robert Fitch, Dallas, Tex., housewife—"I have no faith in the statements coming from the Soviet Union. I doubt the truth of his latest man-in-space story."

Mrs. Erna Kieve, Seattle, Wash., housewife—"I think it's silly to send anyone up there."

Cyril Briggs, Chicago telephone operator—"I think it's overpublicized."

Mrs. Charles E. Derby, Boston housewife—"No doubt it's so, but I believe the U. S. will be out in front when things come to a head."

J. Minter Wherritt, Kansas City, Mo., pharmacist—"It should make us realize that we are a little further behind than we thought."

Julia J. Fehler, New York City housewife—"The question is—did they really do it. Personally, I don't think they did."

Robert Salen, Denver, Colo., basketball coach—"It's a bad time for this to happen when we are bargaining about Berlin."

Raymond Lopez, Denver, Colo., milkman—"I think both sides will come to an agreement anyway, so we're not any worse off."

William Josephson, Russian-born Virginia salesman—"There are still a lot of phony things going on over there. I have confidence in President Kennedy."

Jeri Ray, Arlington, Va., typist—"I think it's wonderful they got him up there."

NEW YORK (AP)—"A spy is a spy no matter what his health may be," U. S. Dist. Judge William B. Herlands said in sentencing Dr. Robert Soblen, already doomed by cancer, to life imprisonment for wartime spying for the Soviet Union.

"Fate has punished me with cancer of the blood," the Lithuanian-born Soblen, 61, said before the sentencing Monday. "My life expectancy now is less than one year."

Judge Herlands could have sentenced the psychiatrist to death for his espionage activities which were conducted during World War II. Soblen has a brother already behind bars for the same crime.

Defense attorneys said they would appeal and Judge Herlands set bail at $100,000—an amount the defense said Soblen had no chance of posting.

Dr. Soblen and his brother, Jack Soblen, 57—they spell their names differently—were longtime Communists who came to this country from Lithuania in 1941 and were naturalized in 1947.

Soblen turned over secret American information to Soviet agents over a 20-year period.

A star government witness at his trial was his brother, Jack, who now is serving seven years for participating in the same spy ring.

Jail Escapee Recaptured

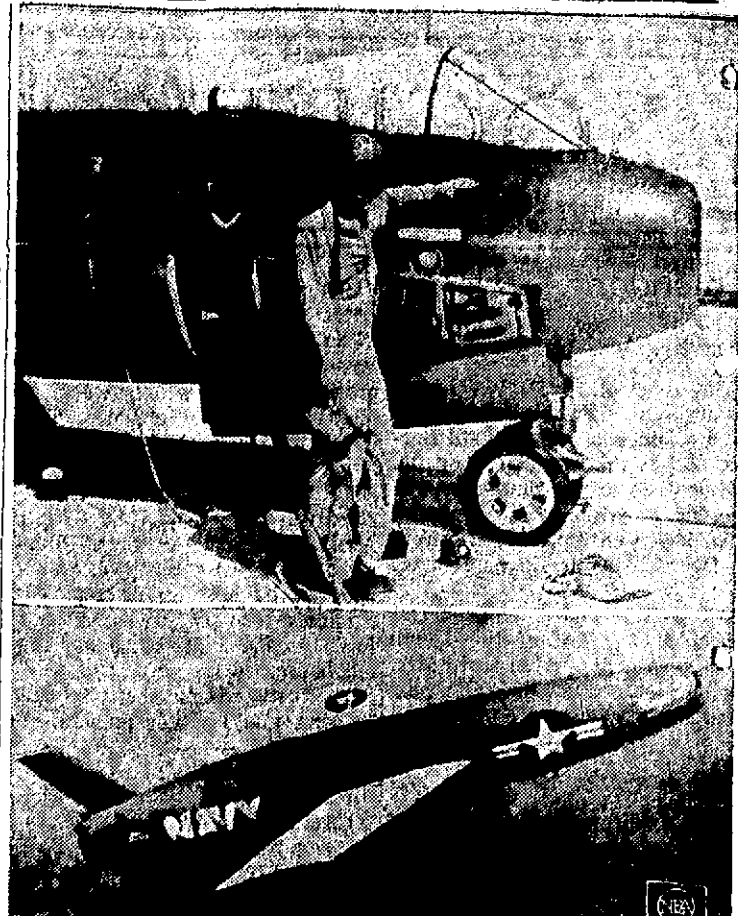

BLYTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A 23-year-old Negro wanted in Louisiana for escaping jail last year was captured here Monday in the attic of a cafe.

Police Chief Charley Short identified him as Thomas James Garner. Short said Garner admitted burglarizing the cafe on five different occasions.

Short said Garner escaped last year from the East Carroll Parish, La., jail.

made the decision to build big, broad organizations which will have big quantities of production when they get going.

"We shouldn't be surprised or dismayed if it takes longer than the other way."

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD—Eleven years ago, a new hush-hush guided missile was being tested and security was important. So the Regulus I missile, undergoing tests at Edwards AFB, Calif., in 1950, was equipped with a fake canopy (top photo) to fool anyone who saw it into thinking it was a new type airplane. Pilot Roy Pearson, who controlled the Regulus from a jet fighter on its first flight, stands beside the camouflaged craft. The Regulus I (bottom) was essentially a pilotless airplane and was later replaced by the needle-nosed Regulus II.

You Mean to But Never Do Some Things

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Everybody has unfinished business in his life. It consists of all the things he'd like to do or get—but somehow, for one reason or another, never does.

Some of the things may seem quite important and, unachieved, may leave a visible scar. Others are only foolish wishful daydreams—vagrant yearnings, zany impulses, small vanities unexpressed. Their defeat impels us to no regret beyond a wry sigh and the philosophical observation, "Well, that's life for you."

Each man builds up his own file of unfinished business—his private portfolio of the wished-for but unattained—as he goes along from childhood through adulthood, and if he keeps his zest for living the file gets bigger and bigger.

For example, somewhere along the way I've wanted to do such things as:

Climb the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty.

Eat a second garlic-buttered snail. The first one seemed awfully filling at the time.

Show Brigitte Bardot the Taj Mahal by moonlight.

Attend an informal dinner party at the White House.

Tie a bow tie just once that didn't look as if it had been assembled by a man with 10 thumbs and the palsy.

Find cures for the common cold and the uncommon hangover.

Talk to Socrates, Voltaire and Emily Dickinson at a spiritualist's seance.

Grow a beard, without winding up looking like a beatnik.

Grow a mustache without looking like a 19th century bartender, or John L. Sullivan up to pot.

Learn to carry a tune, any tune, any tune in the whole wide world.

Become proficient in one other language besides English and pig Latin.

Find a really satisfying new food that would taste like strawberries, ice cream, corn on the cob, mashed potatoes and gravy—and wouldn't have a calorie in a carload.

Own a house by the sea with three bedrooms and 97 bathrooms—one more than any wife can fill with dripping stockings hung up to dry.

Find a potion that would make short,

No Homer But Maris Helps Yankees Win

BY ED WILKS

The New York Yankees, with Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris once again held without a home run, won their sixth in a row and retained a three-game lead in the American League race Tuesday night by beating the Los Angeles Angels 5-4 in 10 innings. Maris' single broke it up after Yogi Berra's home run had given the Yanks a 4-4 tie.

Second place Detroit kept the pace by beating the Chicago White Sox 3-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Jim Bunning.

Third-place Baltimore split a two-night pair with Kansas City, beating the A's 7-0 on the three-hit pitching of Steve Barber in the first game, then losing 6-5. Cleveland defeated Washington 6-5 in 10 innings and the Minnesota Twins, after losing eight in a row, beat Boston 6-5.

In the National, the Los Angeles Dodgers gained a one-game edge with a 7-3 victory over Milwaukee after St. Louis had spilled second-place Cincinnati 6-5. San Francisco whipped the Chicago Cubs 8-1, and Pittsburgh took two from Philadelphia, 10-2 and 3-2.

The Yankees, now 7-0 vs. the Angels at Yankee Stadium, managed just four hits off Eli Grubbs and losing reliever Art Fowler (5-3) before Tony Kubek opened the 10th with a double and came across on Maris' single. New York collected two hits in the first inning, one a two-run double by Elston Howard, but didn't get another until Berra unloaded his 15th home run in the sixth inning. Luis Arroyo (10-3) was the winner, striking out five in his three innings.

Bunning (13-8) didn't walk a man and struck out four while packing away his eighth victory in his last 10 decisions. Norm Cash provided all the slugging support Bunning needed with his 20th home run in the fourth inning off Frank Baumann (8-9). Barber gave up nothing but

Little Rock Captures a Doubleheader

The Atlanta Crackers are on the move in an eleven hour drive to win another Southern Association baseball pennant, but time is running out on the Los Angeles farmhands.

The Crackers won their fifth and sixth straight victories Tuesday night, dumping Shreveport 12-4 and 4-3. The double triumph coupled with league-leading Chattanooga's 5-1 loss to Birmingham left Atlanta seven games out of first place—with only 30 games to go.

Little Rock broke loose and whipped Mobile twice, 3-1 and 5-2. The Nashville-at-Macon contest was postponed because of wet grounds. The schedule for Wednesday night finds Nashville and Macon playing a doubleheader, Atlanta at Shreveport and Birmingham at Chattanooga. Mobile and Little Rock take the day off.

Ed Richardson's three-run homer was all Little Rock strikeout artist Bob Belinsky needed to gain a victory over Mobile. The Little Rock hurler whiffed eight Mobile batters running his league-leading strikeout total to 167 in the first game of the twin bill.

Fellow moundmen Don Bradley, nursing a five-run lead, permitted only five hits, but had to get help in the ninth inning when Mobile rallied for two runs with two men out. Jim Lehev came to Bradley's rescue and ended the game by striking out pinchhitter Tom Richards.

Kansas City then beat Baltimore for only the second time in 13 tries when Haywood Sullivan hit a two-out, three-run home run in the nightcap ninth off reliever Hoyt Wilhelm (8-7). The A's also ended Skinny Brown's shutout streak at 36 innings with a three-run fifth. Norm Bass (6-7) was the winner although giving up three home runs—two by Brandt and Jim Gentile's 32nd. Cleveland came from behind with a four-run eighth triggered by Chuck Essegian's home run and then scored the tie-breaking run in the 10th on catcher Gene Green's second passed ball of the inning. Wynn Hawkins (6-8) was the winner and Dave Sisler (2-6) the loser, both in relief.

Camilo Pascual (9-12) struck out 10, allowed just six hits and drove in three runs for the Twins against Bill Monbouquette (8-11). Homers scored Boston's runs—a solo by Don Buddin and an inside-the-park shot that gave Gary Geiger his first major league grand slam.

That two-team scrap for the National League pennant erupted into a wild and woolly battle from coast to coast Tuesday night as, moving from West to East:

The Los Angeles Dodgers finally caught up with Lew Burdette and whipped the Milwaukee Braves 7-3 for a one-game lead. Third-place San Francisco beat the Chicago Cubs 8-1 in a beanball duel between Jack Sanford and Don Cardwell.

The St. Louis Cardinals out-slugged second-place Cincinnati 6-5. And Pittsburgh's fallen idols and Philadelphia's last-place Phils went at it an all-out brawl in the second game of the Pirates' 10-2 and 3-2 twin-night doubleheader sweep.

In the staid old American League, the New York Yankees won their sixth in a row and retained a three-game edge by beating the Los Angeles Angels 5-4 in 10 innings. Second-place Detroit beat Chicago's White Sox 3-0; Baltimore split with Kansas City, winning 7-0 before the A's bounced back for a 6-5 victory; Cleveland defeated Washington 6-5 in 10 innings, and Minnesota beat Boston 6-5.

The Dodgers, who had lost nine in a row to Burdette in Los Angeles Coliseum, twice blew leads before finally beating the big right-hander with a two-run sixth inning. Junior Gilliam walked, went to third on Duke Snider's single and scored as catcher Joe Torre dropped a throw at the plate — after Gilliam stepped on his ankle. Snider, who drove in two runs, one with a homer, then came across with the clinching run on a single by Frank Howard.

Dick Farrell (7-5) was the winner in relief after starter Sandy Koufax gave up a home run by Frank Thomas and left when the Braves took a 3-2 lead on Joe Adcock's two-run single in the sixth. The Reds and Cards jolted each other with three home runs, but the Red Birds wound up with the edge on a ninth-inning belt by Ken Boyer, his 17th of the year and second of the night off loser Bob Purkey (13-6). Purkey, Vada Pinson and pinch-hitter Jerry Lynch homered for the Reds, with Lynch's fifth pinch shot of the year (one shy of the record) tying it 5-5 in the top of the ninth against winning reliever Lindy McDaniel (8-3). Bill White paired with Boyer for solo home runs in the third inning, after each had knocked in a run with a single in the first.

A two-run single by Willie Mays put it away for the Giants in the first inning. Then Cardwell (9-0) and Sanford (7-6) went to work. Cardwell dropped Sanford with a second-inning pitch and plunked Orlando Cepeda in the back in the third, Sanford got rid of Cardwell in the sixth, nipping him on the back of the neck with a pitch

Showers at L. R. Slows Practice

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Showers chased the West team off the practice field Tuesday and Coach Carl Sorrels called a skull session indoors to get his charges ready for Saturday night's High School All Star football game.

"I thought it was the best thing to do," Sorrels said. "A lot of what we're trying to do depends on how well the players know their assignments."

Only a light sprinkle fell on the East practice field around town and the squad got a good workout with the advantage of cooler temperatures.

Sorrels promoted Dubby Snowden of Hot Springs from the third to first unit as a guard Tuesday. Snowden and Jack Powell of Stamps are the No. 1 West guards at the moment.

East Coach Gene Hall of Little Rock Central said his team still is having trouble with play assignments.

Fullback Tommy Reese of Osceola scored three touchdowns in a scrimmage and drew praise from Hall, who also lauded halfback Clayton McCaskill of Pine Bluff.

Assistant Coach Ken Turney of Eudora said the tackle position is shaping up especially well for the East.

The rain didn't interfere with the two basketball squads. The West team continued to work on plays to offset the East's superior height.

However, the rebounding sensation of the practice sessions continued to be Will Roy Lewis, the jumping jack from Mulberry. The basketball game is scheduled Saturday afternoon in air-conditioned Barton Coliseum. The footballers clash Saturday night in War Memorial Stadium.

that put the Cub right-hander out of the game. He wasn't injured seriously.

Sanford then tagged a two-run homer off reliever Don Elston in the sixth and finished with a five-hitter.

The Bucs and Phils got into it as the Pirates handed the Phils a 12th straight defeat and their 17th defeat in 18 games — enough to get anybody riled. It started when Pirate catcher Hal Smith fell on Tony Gonzalez as he slid into the plate and ended when six cops came to the aid of the out-manned ump. Managers Danny Murtaugh of the Bucs and Gene Mauch of the Phils went into the brawl as peacemakers and came out with the worst of it—Murtaugh with a spike wound on his neck, Mauch with a black eye.

Tom Sturdivant won his first NL decision although giving up seven hits, one a home run by Gonzalez. Chris short (4-8) was the loser.

The Bucs banged out 13 hits in the opener. Smoky Burgess was 5-for-5 driving in four runs with four singles and a sixth-inning home run that settled it against Art Mahaffey (7-16), who now has lost nine in a row. Harvey Haddix (8-5) was the winner.

ROSE BELL CALVIN

A HOPE RESIDENT IS 707 years old according to her daughter. She is Rose Bell Calvin, the mother of 17 children, nine of whom are still living. There is no known proof of her age but her daughter with whom she lives on Rose Hill Street, Beatrice Calvin, emphatically declares she is that old.
